16 Students Of Margaret Eaton Get Diplomas

Hope that the University of Toronto will have, in the near future, a gymnasium for its women students, which will give greater impetus to development of physical education in higher spheres, was expressed by President H. J. Cody, speaking yesterday at the commencement exercises of The Margaret Eaton School.

Bringing the greetings of the university to the Margaret Eaton School, Dr. Cody referred to the co-operation which had always existed between these two bodies, and highly commended the work of the school. He stressed the importance of physical education in realizing what he referred to as "the old Greek ideal of a balance between body and intellect," but reminded the students that "physical fitness" was not "an end in itself but the means to an end," and concluded his address on the keynote of the importance of character, and spiritual development.

An inspirational message to the graduating class was given by the Rev. George O. Fallis, C.B.E., the Chairman. The Right Rev. A. H. Sovereign, Bishop of Athabasca, gave the invocation. The valedictory was read by Miss Ellen Sovereign, and the school Glee Club provided the musical program.

Miss Florence A. Somers, director of the school, presented diplomas and awards, as follows: For Charles A. Kaubach Silver Medal for general proficiency, leadership and service to the school; Naida Louise Wright Proctor, the gold medal for highest standing; Netta Margaret Morrison; honours in practice, Ellen Fearnought Sovereign; diplomas: Hazel Vernona Bridgen, Margaret Mary Dunning, Marion Hannah Glenwright, Phyllis Janet Hammill, Helen Mary Hurd, Elizabeth Blanche Logie, Isabel Margaret Love, Dorothy Vernon Lowman, Netta Margaret Morrison, Naida Louise Wright Proctor, Hilda Irene Smith, Ellen Fearnought, Sovereign. Increasing interest in books on the drama is a notable feature of reader interest, fostered to a great extent by the public schools, drama festivals and various societies sponsoring the art of the theatre. It is found.

Due to radio reviews interest is concentrated on fewer books, librarians state. People no longer come for "a book," they come for "the book."

Everywhere the trend toward non-fiction is upward, but most marked in Toronto at the Central Branch where from 45 to 50 per cent. of the circulation is in this class. Biographies form a class in popular demand.
